INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Large Cap Value Fund pursues long-term capital appreciation by investing in undervalued stocks of quality, U.S. companies. The Large Cap Value Fund team strives to capitalize on the inefficiencies in the equity market by using robust, quantitative stock selection models to identify undervalued companies that have attractive risk/return profiles.

INVESTMENT PROCESS

The investment process begins with proprietary, quantitative research and modeling that help us define the market environment, analyze the investment universe and rank stocks from most to least attractive. The portfolio team incorporates a fundamental overlay to the process by reviewing buy/sell candidates and industry rankings to validate and interpret model rankings. Catholic screens are applied to ensure that all purchase candidates meet the USCCB investment guidelines.

The performance data quoted represents past performance. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. The investment return and principal value of an investment will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth less than their original cost and current performance may be higher or lower than the performance quoted. The Fund charges a 2.00% redemption fee on shares held less than 30 days. Investment performance does not reflect this redemption fee; if it was reflected, the total return would be lower than shown. For performance data current to the most recent month end, please call 1-844-KC-FUNDS.

* The inception date of the Bloomberg 1000 Value Catholic Values Total Return Index was September 9, 2021, and as such no performance information is available for periods prior to September 9, 2021.

QUARTERLY COMMENTARY

The Bloomberg 1000 Value Catholic Values Index rose +3.86% during the quarter and the Bloomberg US 1000 Value Index rose +4.14%. The Catholic Values index finished higher by +16.13% for the trailing twelve months. The Information Technology sector performed the best on an absolute basis for the quarter, rising +17%, while Communication Services brought up the rear, falling -5%. The Information Technology sector performed the best on an absolute basis for the trailing twelve months, rising +52% while Consumer Staples performed the worst, ending lower by -4%.

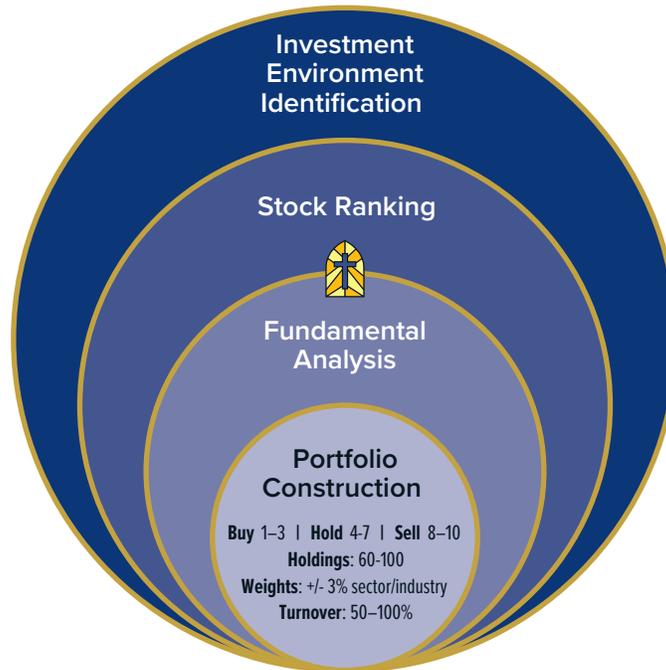

The Fund returned +3.91% for the quarter. The Financials sector added value due to allocation and stock selection. Capital One Financial Corp. (1.7% Average Weight, +13.4% Total Return) rose +13.43%. The company continues to integrate its acquisition of Discover Financial Services, maintains excess capital and continues to benefit from a mostly benign credit environment. The Goldman Sachs Group, Inc. (2.3%, +10.9%) rose as well. Strong tailwinds continue to power their business including higher equity markets, strong capital market activity and rebounding M&A activity.

The information provided herein represents the opinion of the manager at a specific point in time and is not intended to be a forecast of future events, a guarantee of future results nor investment advice.

The Information Technology sector detracted value. Motorola Solutions, Inc. (0.6%, -15.9%) sold off in October and November. Their guidance update in the Q3 earnings release was underwhelming along with tariff impacts likely continuing into 2026. Sandisk Corp. (0.0%, +111.6%) is in the benchmark but was not owned in the fund. Shares rose +111.57% over increasing demand for digital storage space due to AI model training and content production, thus dragging on relative performance.

As we turn the calendar to 2026, investor focus remains on the durability of AI-related leadership. If earnings growth broadens, as some prognosticators assume, then it is possible market leadership will broaden as well. AI and tech valuations remain high, supported by above-market earnings growth expectations. Though we continue to recognize elevated risks, liquidity, fiscal and monetary policies, and regulatory easing all remain supportive of equities as we noted last quarter. We continue to maintain a balanced, risk managed approach to portfolio construction while navigating a challenging environment.

Additionally, Index constituents’ weights will be updated in June and December.
